

Steiner

Steiner early childhood education, takes an unhurried approach to childhood by providing a safe and secure environment in an increasingly fragmented world. Each stage of child development has unique qualities to impart to the child and should be experienced fully before embarking upon the next stage. Respect for individual needs, world citizenship and a concept of community is of major importance in this curriculum where natural objects from the environment are used.

